

Parliamentary Question – Compensation Orders

Date: 29 January 2015

Asked by: Paul Blomfield MP

Question:

What the terms of reference are of the work the University of Derby is conducting for her Department to assess the need for extension of the remit of the Gangmasters Licensing Authority to sectors beyond its current remit?

Response:

The University of Derby has not been contracted by the Home Office to assess the remit of the Gangmasters Licensing Authority.

The University is collaborating with the Gangmaster Licensing Authority to develop an academy which will offer those within the labour supply chain and others training on how to spot the signs of worker exploitation. This will enable them to enhance their checks on workers' treatment and welfare and identify hidden forms of exploitation. The Gangmasters Licensing Authority have already piloted aspects of this training with the supermarket Sainsbury's.
